A good location is essential – GPV's enterprise in Bangkok without any trace of impact from the floods

GPV Asia (Thailand) Co., Ltd. is still operating as usual and is not affected by the current flooding as well as surrounding areas and roads remains dry and with no evidence of flooding.

Not only the local precautions taken by GPV's organization but also the location of GPV Asia in the Bangpoo Industrial Estate, an area with excellent infrastructural conditions and a great readiness to face a situation like floods, have contributed to the company being able to continue production unaffected.

The government regularly evaluates the areas in Bangkok regarding potential risk for flooding, and the Bangpoo Industrial Estate has constantly evaluated as a low risk area of flooding.

Despite that we in the last days have received information that our area now is characterized as a safe area, GPV Asia is still monitoring the situation closely and the emergency team has been assigned for stand-by 24/7.

We can conclude that our Business Continuity Plan works well as our team in Thailand responded immediately when the first reports of flooding north of Bangkok arrived several weeks ago.

GPV Asia's efficient preparations against the floods, have contributed to the fact that many of our employees have shown the energy to organize relief to their fellow citizens together with the management.

The first distribution of relief goods packets with water and food took place while the flooding in Bangkok was at its highest. The latest relief effort was carried out last Sunday and was very well organized.

A terrain vehicle transported the 35 employees to areas that are difficult to access and the 350 support packages could be distributed.

This work is a natural part of GPV's culture and our CSR policy, however it is only due to our dedicated colleagues who have spent their spare time to organize and carry out the projects that this was completed successfully.

Another distribution of 350 emergency packages will be carried out by GPV's employees during week 47. This action will be financed by the money we have previously spent to send printed season's greetings to our customers and business relations, thus the season's greeting will be sent by e-mail this year.
